

A.L. Box Scores

(Continued From Page 36) in second stanza with big blows being Moseby's two-run homer and Whitt's three-run double.

Box score for Texas vs Toronto, including player stats and totals.

CHICAGO AT MILWAUKEE (N)

Two-run double by Thomas keyed three-run eighth inning that enabled Brewers to register their seventh straight victory, 5-2 over White Sox.

Box score for Chicago vs Milwaukee.

KANSAS CITY AT BOSTON (D)

Miller's bases-loaded triple keyed six-run eighth-inning rally that carried Red Sox to 8-4 victory over Royals.

Box score for Kansas City vs Boston.

KANSAS CITY AT BOSTON (D)

Miller's bases-loaded triple keyed six-run eighth-inning rally that carried Red Sox to 8-4 victory over Royals.

Box score for Kansas City vs Boston.

Jensen, A.L. MVP in '58, Dead at 55

OBITUARIES

Jack Eugene (Jackie) Jensen, an almost reluctant star with the Boston Red Sox whose fear of flying abbreviated a brilliant baseball career, died July 14 at the University of Virginia Hospital in Charlottesville, where he had been taken after suffering a heart attack at his home in Fork Union, Va. He was 55. Jensen was nicknamed the "Golden Boy" because of his blond good looks, his football prowess at the University of California and his quick rise to the major leagues as one of the early big-money bonus babies.

Jackie Jensen and the award he received in 1958 as the American League's Most Valuable Player.

He spent 11 seasons in the big leagues, including seven productive years with Boston. He led the American League in runs batted in three times, including 1958, when he drove across 122 and was named the league's Most Valuable Player.

An enigmatic personality, Jensen drove to his first spring training camp in a yellow Cadillac convertible. Yet he was an eager student of the game and popular with his fellow players because of his unpretentiousness.

Jensen passed up his senior year at California, where he had been an All-America fullback, to sign a $75,000 bonus contract with the Oakland Oaks of the Pacific Coast League in 1949. The New York Yankees, who had been unsuccessful bidders for his services, bought Jensen and another player, Billy Martin, from the Oaks the next year.

The two were the most promising rookies in the Yankees' camp in 1950. Jensen was looked upon as the successor to an aging Joe DiMaggio, but was a flop, by Manager Casey Stengel's standards, in pinstripes.

Mickey Mantle got DiMaggio's job, and Jensen was farmed out to Kansas City of the American Association, then traded in May of 1952 to the Washington Senators.

He matured as a player in two seasons with Washington, then was swapped again, this time to the Red Sox in exchange for Mickey McDermott and Tom Umphlett. A right-handed power hitter who overcame the temptations presented by the friendly left-field wall at Fenway Park, Jensen maintained his style of hitting to all fields. He drove in over 100 runs in five of his seven seasons with the Red Sox, and averaged 25 home runs.

Jensen, who had married spring-board diving champion Zoe Ann Olsen in 1949, unexpectedly announced his retirement in January of 1960 at the age of 32. He cited family problems and his ever-present fear of flying.

Of his phobia, Jensen once said: "I don't know when it started or how or why. It's just there. I don't have any other fears, just that one." It was one he was unable to overcome, although he sought the help of psychiatrists and hypnotists. During his last several seasons with Boston, Jensen, who had married spring-board diving champion Zoe Ann Olsen in 1949, unexpectedly announced his retirement in January of 1960 at the age of 32.

He cited family problems and his ever-present fear of flying. Of his phobia, Jensen once said: "I don't know when it started or how or why. It's just there. I don't have any other fears, just that one." It was one he was unable to overcome, although he sought the help of psychiatrists and hypnotists. During his last several seasons with Boston, Jensen, who had married spring-board diving champion Zoe Ann Olsen in 1949, unexpectedly announced his retirement in January of 1960 at the age of 32.

The Latest Version Of Earl vs. Ump

BALTIMORE—Tempestuous Earl Weaver faced the prospect of a fine, suspension or perhaps both as the result of his most recent brush with an umpire. "I don't want to make any comment until I talk with (American League President) Lee MacPhail, after he views tapes of the incident," said umpire Terry Cooney, referring to developments in the Orioles-Mariners game July 17.

Cooney ejected the Baltimore manager July 16, for disputing a balk call against pitcher Dennis Martinez, and again July 17, for beefing when Eddie Murray was called out to complete a double play.

In the July 17 incident, Weaver appeared to make contact with Cooney while pointing a finger in the umpire's face. Asked if there had been any contact during the argument, Weaver said: "More than likely there was, but I don't know whose fault it was."

In the dispute over the balk call July 16, Weaver took the baseball and glove from Martinez and demonstrated his idea of the pickoff move in trying to prove that his pitcher had not balked. The Memorial Stadium crowd roared its approval.

Games of Sunday, July 18

Philadelphia Phillies to 5-3 victory over Giants in 11 innings. Rose and Gross singled off reliever Breining with two out in top of 11th before Barr replaced Breining on hill for Giants and gave up two-bagger to Schmidt that plated two runs. Schmidt had put Phillies ahead, 3-2, with solo homer in eighth, but Giants had tied contest in bottom

Games of Sunday, July 18

Toronto 5, Texas 4; New York 7, Oakland 3; Baltimore 4, Seattle 3; Minnesota 6, Detroit 1; Kansas City 9, Boston 0; Cleveland 5, California 4; Milwaukee 9, Chicago 3.

PHILADELPHIA AT SAN FRANCISCO (D)

Schmidt powered Phillies to 5-3 victory over Giants in 11 innings. Rose and Gross singled off reliever Breining with two out in top of 11th before Barr replaced Breining on hill for Giants and gave up two-bagger to Schmidt that plated two runs. Schmidt had put Phillies ahead, 3-2, with solo homer in eighth, but Giants had tied contest in bottom

PITTSBURGH AT HOUSTON (N)

Spilman homered with one out in 10th inning to give Astros 4-3 victory over Pirates. Contest had been deadlocked since sixth stanza when Bucs scored on RBI single by Berra. Spilman's round-tripper—his first of season—came on first pitch from Tekulve.

MONTEAL AT SAN DIEGO (N)

Scattering seven hits, Gulickson pitched Expos to 4-1 triumph over Padres. Expos tallied three times in second inning on walk to Oliver, double by Carter, two-run two-bagger by Cromartie and double-play grounder by Spier.

NEW YORK AT LOS ANGELES (N)

Four-run rally in ninth inning enabled Dodgers to edge Mets, 6-5. Los Angeles load-

Games of Sunday, July 18

St. Louis 6, Cincinnati 5; Atlanta 4, Chicago 2; Houston 4, Pittsburgh 2; San Francisco 4, Philadelphia 3; Montreal 9, San Diego 2; New York 8, Los Angeles 3.

HOW THEY STAND

Standings on Monday A.M., July 19. Table showing win-loss records and percentages for various MLB teams.

HOW THEY STAND

Standings on Monday A.M., July 19. Table showing win-loss records and percentages for various MLB teams.

HOW THEY STAND

Standings on Monday A.M., July 19. Table showing win-loss records and percentages for various MLB teams.